

Biography of Nathan S Smalls

President at Brooklyn Media Publishing & Sports Marketing, Nathan Smalls has been involved in the entertainment business for over 25 years. The early days in the entertainment industry began in 1988 producing and hosting a video show “Hip-Hop Generation” which aired on cable networks in 3 states. The show, with its many successes landed him independent street promotion assignments with MCA Records, Epic Records, Def Jam Records and almost every indie label you could name.

His current projects include “Creator of “The Black Excellence Festival” a yearly cultural festival held in Atlantic City, NJ. The BE Festival has become one of the Nation’s largest Juneteenth Festivals, Nathan currently holds the position as Chairman of Prosperity Records” A new innovative Gospel/Soul Music centered record label. He has been producing & writing music for VH1 since 2006 and his song placements can be heard on shows like "Making The Band, The Newly Weds, Pimp My Ride and Date My Mom" to name a few. He is also the Creative force behind the very successful artist/songwriter showcase "R&B LIVE" which launched in NYC in 2001 and was hosted by Grammy Nominee "Marc Dorsey". No one would have guessed that the love of music and programming would become the cornerstone of the work that he loves to do today.

His client list also reached the top echelons of the sports world as he's represented Light Heavy Weight Champion "George Khalid Jones" and produced halftime shows for the New York Knicks, Boston Celtics, Washington Wizards and 1 NBA All Star Game. His business savvy led him to create the Basketball Freestyle Campaign for retailer "Modells" with Street Ball Phenom and actor "Luis Trixz" DaSilva" whom he managed at the time.

With a schedule this full who would have ever thought that he would be the creative force behind Women of Color Expo and Brooklyn Media a digital Publishing Company with more than 100,000 Afro-American women and men attending expos and subscribing to the monthly newsletter and shopping at the online super mall for people of color “The Black Shopping Networks”. Nathan’s desire to build and create opportunities in the entertainment sports and publishing industries and his endless drive towards success has earned him high praise from his peers.

Nathan will always tell you that “to whom much is given, much is required” and his personal passion drives him to support those who need it the most. Nathan clearly states: "I was extremely blessed as a child and my parents always taught us that sharing as well as caring was a central part of being blessed". While I may not have personally had a struggle, I do understand that only through the grace of GOD that I was as fortunate as I was. I realize that it's an obligation and what GOD intended all believers to do “Be a Servant to Others”.

With all that he has accomplished most would have called it a successful career but as Nathan clearly states, “I feel like I’m just getting warmed up, I have so much more to share with younger people and want to see the young people fulfill their destiny, Your legacy only lives on through the people that you have helped along the way”. Stay Tuned!!!!
